Déjà Vu all over again. Political turmoil, Harvey Weinstein, Matt Lauer, Kevin Spacey, Al Franken…… on and on and on. The world is changing, with more awareness for equality, proper protocol, and human interaction. The globe is spinning, still, on its axis, but never in memory have things evolved so quickly. Russia, North Korea, Pakistan, China, where does the United States stand with potential adversaries and, more important, with friends and allies. The United States in a non-leadership role is not good for the world in general or for the United States, in particular. Changing economic climates are interesting at both the center and the fringe where technology continues to race forward at warp speed, so who knows what lies ahead? More speed, more awareness of our small planet. The stock market flexing its muscle with pent up energy being released through deregulation, but do you cut taxes in the face of strong economic progress or do we fan the now dormant inflation. Bit-coin, blockchain, where do we go from here? Hack, hack, steal ideas, industrial espionage, these evils create opportunity. Dropping corporate tax rates, on the face of it is a good idea until everyone drops into alignment and then the steroid effect quickly wears off. There is one constant in this entire uncertain scenario, they can never take away your education!!!!! Your Nicolais School of Business continues to test the waters with new ideas and by continually reaching out to our alumni and external stakeholders. Our goal is to deliver a product, “our students,” who not only compete in the highly competitive business world but excel in the most professional and ethical way. Our very successful AccMBA with a DUAL Major of Finance/Management will move to a weekend schedule in the fall, so that ALL students will be able to pursue their careers and new employment opportunities. Our SELECT program is running full steam ahead; see more about the accomplishments of our students inside. Stay tuned for new programs and our continually evolving curriculum.

Special News

Our beloved Dr. Jim Michael, Professor of Management in the Nicholais School of Business for 18 academic years from 1992 through 2010 sadly passed away last March 2017. Before Wagner College he taught at Upsala College which closed due to financial hardship. He earned his Bachelors of Arts from Queens College in History in 1973. He earned his MBA from Saint John’s University in Marketing and International Business in 1982 and his PhD from SUNY Albany in Management in 1991. He was the creator of the EMBA, the Executive Masters of Business Administration in 1992, which stills runs to this day. It is an evening and weekend program designed specifically for professionals with at least five years of managerial experience. Dr. Michael has an extensive list of publications in such journals as the Journal of Leadership and Organizational Studies, Multinational Business Review, International Journal of Commerce and Management, Journal of Management s Systems and Group and Organization Management. Along with many other publications in proceeding and presented papers. He also served as an independent consultant to several colleges and banks and Fortune 500 companies in his area of expertise of organizational behavior and human resource. In addition he was active in the college community outside of the department through his leadership on the Faculty Personal Committee, the Budget and Priority Committee among others. Jim was highly regarded for his academic and professional commitment and for making Wagner a very stimulating, warm and special place for his colleagues and his students. I remember during one of our faculty meetings, he shocked some of us when he called out to make a point for the debate that everything is not purely black and white by saying “I don’t know what pornography is, but I know it when I see it”. He was quoting a famous expression taken from the 1964 Supreme Court Case specifically on the determinants of that case. He was highly intellectual, warm, kind and a gentleman in all matters. The Wagner College as a Whole voted Dr. Jim Michael professor Emeritus Posthumous at the January 2018 faculty meeting to be forever scribed in our book of outstanding professors. Eternal Rest to you Dr. Jim we will always remember you kindly.
Curriculum News: Undergraduate

The fall semester proved to be another enriching semester for our students. Capstone results, once again were very gratifying as one team led by Fabio Maaramotti, our Triathlete, including Joseph Crowley, Quydiyah Gustus, Tim Jackson, and Allen Wang, finished in the top 40 in the world, out of over 1700 teams. A Team led by Jack Blatchford, including Jim Lynagh, Dan O’Neill and Dan Yurkins finished in the TOP 15, worldwide. CONGRATULATIONS!!! Our teams from Wagner.

We continue to enhance skills which employers indicate are important to career placement – excel, oral and written communication plus the importance of integrity and work ethic. For example, our business learning community pairs Principles of Finance with Speech for Business. Students enhance their speaking skills under the tutelage of our esteemed speech professor, Susan Fenley, who helps students prepare PowerPoint presentations of financial analysis of a publicly-held company. The improvement from the beginning of the semester to the end of the semester is truly remarkable. At the end, students go forth with confidence to communicate effectively in the classroom and the workplace.

One of the hallmarks of our program is a course titled Follow the Money, taught by Dr. Crooks, our chairperson. This course covers financial crisis, misconduct, and ethical behavior in the workplace. Our students’ eyes are opened to the realities and pitfalls of inappropriate business conduct – a life lesson for our budding professionals.

We are also very proud of Ashley Kelly ’20 who received a perfect score on the Microsoft Office Certification Exam. This exam is the culmination of Excel for Business course (CS 260) introduced to ensure students are proficient in Excel, per the recommendation of our Advisory Board.

The vast majority of our juniors and seniors have taken full advantage of internship opportunities including some at the Big 4 accounting firms, the Securities Exchange Commission, various wealth management organizations, marketing firms and banks. The majority of our hosts are Wagner Alumni who wish to help Wagner students “get a foot in the door.” Our faculty and students are grateful for your dedication to our students.

If you wish to share your time and talents with our students, do reach out to me. We welcome our Alumni and appreciate your willingness to give back to Wagner.

Happy, healthy New Year!

The Senior Thesis and Practicum Reflective Tutorial hosted two events attended by our Business students. The Etiquette Dinner is a bi-annual event coordinated by CACE. This fall, Tara Chiari, in conjunction with Chartwells, provided our students with a comprehensive business meeting and dining experience. The purpose of this event was to ensure that our graduates are prepared for "real world" situations. It was also great fun!
Also, twice a year, our alumni generously take part in our Young Alumni Panel. These former students offer a glimpse into their experiences as a post graduate. This year's event was particularly well received. The question and answer period went on for 90 minutes! Great job by our alumni and our students. Our panel included Brian Malley, Elisabeth Cardiello, Megan Sardella, Andrew Burt, and Amanda LoMonaco.

In the fall, club members attended the event titled, “Stakeholder Management & Coaching in Complex Organizational Systems” on October 18, 2017 at the New York Public Library, on Fifth Avenue. The presenter was Dr. Sean O’Connor, Leadership Coach, and University of Sydney, who provided practical approaches to leveraging organizational systems for greater impact.

Remarks from Director of Accreditation and Assessment

Nicolais School of Business faculty are committed to ensuring high quality learning experiences for all students. To this end, we continually monitor student learning outcomes and adjust curriculum to ensure students are given the most cutting-edge knowledge available. Beginning last semester, we have begun reporting assessment data at a much more detailed level, so faculty can see longitudinal changes in student learning by specific learning goals. For example, data for the written communication rubric are now reported by the five learning goals (e.g., development, organization) rather than by the total score on the rubric. We also report four years of data on employer responses to specific questions about interns (e.g., ability to work without supervision). The faculty are looking forward to making use of the expanded report to improve their courses.

Our annual assessment reports and rubrics used to assess student knowledge may be viewed at the following URL’s.

With access to a network of more than 25,000 alumni, Wagner College students have a tremendous opportunity built into their college experience at the outset. Similarly, Wagner alumni seeking to hire bright, civic-minded students with strong academic backgrounds need only to look within their own alma mater to find the right candidates. At Wagner, these connections have primarily developed organically, as outcomes of alumni on-campus involvement or through direct contact with departments and the Center for Academic & Career Engagement.

The Wagner Select mentoring program takes the opportunity for student-alumni connections one step further by building on the existing informal process with a competitive process. Within the Wagner Select program, our highest performing students, those in the top 5% to 10%, are rewarded with first-preference access to successful alumni in their chosen industry, and alumni mentors are able to focus their influence and to develop deeper, more profound relationships with students.

The Nicolais School of Business, led by chair Dr. Donald L. Crooks, began this program in the fall of 2016 in partnership with alumna Mary Caracappa-Hurtado ’82, a Wagner Trustee and Morgan Stanley Managing Director. The effort is staffed and supported by Ms. Tara Chiari, Director of the Center for Academic & Career Engagement, and Chris Fourman, Senior College Relations Officer in the Office of Institutional Advancement.

Wagner Select is unique in that each selected student is connected to a “mentor team,” a pair of alumni in their chosen industry who have varying levels of experience: one who is closer to the student’s age group with 3-7 years of experience and one who is a seasoned professional. This allows for a team approach to mentoring and multi-layered connections between alumni and students.

Benefits for Alumni Mentors

- As part of a “mentor team,” alumni mentors also connect with other alumni in their field.
- The competitive process for applying to be a Wagner Select student ensures that the alumni mentor is connected with elite students at Wagner.
- Alumni mentors are staffed and supported by the Office of Institutional Advancement and College Relations.
- Alumni mentors have the opportunity to directly impact a student’s career trajectory, helping them navigate early in their career and, thus, shaping their future.

Benefits for Wagner Select Students

- Wagner Select students graduate with deep connections in their chosen industry.
- Wagner Select students gain a lasting professional resource in their mentor teams and individuals who are invested in their career success.
- Wagner Select students are positioned to succeed early in their careers and can become alumni with distinction.
Expectations

Mentors

Participation

Wagner recognizes that alumni mentors may have varying levels of availability and willingness to participate. All alumni mentors are assigned a Wagner College Relations Officer, Chris Fourman, to ensure that their experience in the Wagner Select program continues to be mutually beneficial.

We ask all alumni mentors to commit to participate for one full academic year (August to May). At the end of the academic year, the alumni mentors’ assigned College Relations Officer will connect with them and discuss their mentoring experience. We promise that the mentoring opportunity is on a one-to-one basis, meaning alumni will be assigned one mentee at a time.

Communication

In the spirit of the organic nature of connections that have existed at Wagner, the Wagner Select program does not have a rigid communications requirement. Rather, we encourage each mentor team to create its own agreed-upon mode and frequency of contact between alumni mentor and student.

We suggest: monthly check-ins via phone, email, Facetime/Skype; and quarterly or semi-annual (at least once per semester) in-person lunches or coffee.

During the year, Wagner will invite all Wagner Select students and mentor teams to an event either on-campus or in Manhattan to reinforce connections.

Influence

We ask our alumni mentors to give their Wagner Select students first preference in available internships or positions at their respective companies, providing that Wagner Select students are ideal candidates for those positions. In some cases, guidance regarding students’ academic program will be part of the discussions, in particular about maintaining GPA and the courses mentees should strive to enroll in to ensure they have the background necessary to succeed in their chosen focus areas. We also ask our alumni mentors to assist and advise our students on the non-academic skill sets required to succeed professionally.

Wagner Select Students

Wagner Select students are required to sign a contract agreeing to maintain academic excellence throughout the duration of their college careers. They understand that the onus is on them to maintain a communication flow with their mentor teams, including semester updates on their academic performance and/or challenges they are facing.

Wagner Select students also understand that participating in the program is a privilege and a tremendous, potentially life-changing opportunity.
The Selection Process

Wagner Select students undergo two rounds of selection beginning with an application process implemented through the Center for Academic & Career Engagement. The group selected via application also have an interview with Ms. Tara Chiari to discuss their career plans. In the pilot program, the best students in the Nicolais School of Business were selected via applications by CACE and then further vetted through the Nicolais School of Business Wagner Select Committee. Committee members include Dr. Cathyyann Tully, Director of Undergraduate Studies, Professor Edward Strafaci, Director of Experiential Learning, and Dr. Donald L. Crooks, Chair.
