

Semester-Long Internship: Washington, DC Internship — GOV 395 & GOV 396

This learning community exposes students to the workings of the governmental and political processes in Washington, DC. Through internship assignments, classroom instruction, and directed readings and research, students will develop a greater appreciation of the policy-making process. The courses are offered in Washington, DC (each course is a 2-unit course), and registration is by permission of the instructor.

GOV 395-IL Washington Internship — Kraus
and
GOV 396-IL Dynamics of American Government — Kraus

Two-Unit, Non-Honors or Honors ILC for Nursing Majors: Nutritional Strategies: Bacteria to Humans — MI 200 & NR 224

This learning community, intended for Nursing majors, looks at the cellular nutrition of eukaryotes (humans) vs. the nutrition of prokaryotes (bacteria). It also covers the similarities and differences in the structure, function and role of carbohydrates, proteins, lipids, vitamins and trace elements in humans and bacteria. Finally, it looks at the immunological aspects of nutrition across the human life span compared to the immunological aspects in disease prevention.

NR 224-IL Nutrition & Health — Aurelus — Fridays 8:00 – 11:00 am

OR

NR 224-HL Nutrition & Health — Aurelus — Fridays 8:00 – 11:00 am

AND

MI 200 (any section) Microbiology

AND

MI 200L (any section) Microbiology Lab

Two-Unit ILC: Public Speaking for Business —FI 201 & SPC 103

In addition to addressing the apprehension of public speaking, this ILC is an ideal addition for the business student. Utilizing principles of finance concepts, participants will learn how to effectively present financial information about their company to various stakeholders groups. Students learn skills that allow them to speak informatively, persuasively, and in groups. Through these techniques, students cultivate personal style that results in more powerful presentations, which is a skill that is important to one's academic and professional advancement. Prerequisites: EC 101 or 102, AC 101

FI 201-IL Principles of Finance (TC) — Tully — Tuesdays & Thursdays 1:00 – 2:30 pm
AND
SPC 103-IL Public Speaking — Fenely — Mondays & Wednesdays 1:00 – 2:30 pm

Two-Unit ILC: Exploring Evolution and our Place Within It —PH 205 & BI 135

Traditionally biologists and philosophers have raised certain basic questions about evolution and the place of human beings within it. The questions, moreover, have perplexed those thinkers throughout their history. This ILC explores some of those questions: What do we know about nature, evolution, and ourselves? Does consciousness exist? Is there a place for consciousness, and for God, within an evolutionary view of nature? Can consciousness be explained materialistically? What is the relation, if any, between consciousness and our physical organism? All of these questions are pursued with reference to classical and modern thinkers. (Both the Biology and Philosophy courses are intended for students outside of these fields and have no prerequisites.)

PH 205-IL Philosophy of Mind — Danisi — Mondays & Wednesdays 9:40–11:10 am
and
BI 135-IL Evolution — Palestis — Mondays & Wednesdays 11:20 am – 12:50 pm

One-Unit, Team-Taught ILC: Social Work and Counseling: Psychological Disorders in Context
— SW 211 or PS 291

An overview of various psychological disorders and the societal impact on their perception, diagnosis, and treatment options. Students will learn the criteria for specific diagnoses as outlined in the DSM-5. Students will also examine recent and relevant empirical articles regarding perceptions and treatment of individuals impacted by these disorders.

Through experiential learning and practical application, students will acquire therapeutic skills and explore the techniques and theories associated with social work practice with individuals and families. Evidence-based contemporary psychotherapeutic approaches will be discussed through the context of a social justice and empowerment framework.

SW 211-IL Social Work Practice with Individuals and Families — Clark — Thursdays 6:00–9:00 pm

Or

PS 291-IL Special Topics in Psychology: Psychological Disorders in Context — Arcieri — Thursdays 6:00–9:00 pm