NOTE FROM THE CHAIR

The more things change the more they stay the same. As we enter the second year of the Trump era, we find revolutionary changes in the economic landscape, scrapping of regulations, some good and some very bad environmentally, coupled with a shot from the hip abusive approach to trade and global strategy. As the year progresses, we find ourselves implementing the most sweeping corporate tax overhaul in history, an unprecedented move occurring during a singularly impressive economic expansion. Hopefully this does increase our competitiveness while not becoming the fuel for a malignant resurgence of inflation. Your Nicolais School of Business has been facing the challenges of dynamic changes within the delivery of online programs as well as all consumers wishing to get done sooner and with less credits and courses. We have culled our curriculum to match the needs and wants of our constituents. As we moved from a Business Department to a School of Business, we will be conducting a search for an Interim Dean and my term as Chair will conclude. I wish to thank each member of the Nicolais School of Business with emphasis on our Directors. It has been my honor to work with and serve you and our students.

Marko Kepi, 2014 MBA

When I was nine years old living in my birth country of Albania, I remember hanging out in my city of Shkodra with my friends when hundreds of NATO troops suddenly infiltrated my city on their way to Kosova to liberate the Albanian People from the barbarous Serbian regime. I remember the French, Italian, and German troops as well as the US Marines. It was at that time when I first wanted to become a US Marine! There was something so different about them as they stood out from the rest! However, becoming a US Marine remained just a dream to me since I was not a US citizen, living in another country where dreams stayed dreams that do not come to fruition. A few years later, my family did everything possible to escape Socialist/Communist Albania and come to America. We came to America illegally and surrendered ourselves to authorities the moment we arrived at Logan Airport in Boston Massachusetts and requested political asylum. It was a hard and difficult immigration process, but many years later we were granted our residency and later our citizenship. This country has provided for my family and me what my birth country had denied my parents and their parents: freedom of speech, religion and the right to education! Because of this country I was the first one to graduate from college. I then also went on to receive a master’s degree, and even work for the most powerful Senator in the State of New York, Senator Marty Golden. On the other hand, my father did not have the same opportunity in Albania and my mother was not allowed to go to school. The school that her grandfather built and donated to his country was one in which his nieces and nephews were denied to even attend. Everything I am and we have as a family is due to the chances and opportunities this great country has offered us and it was time for me to give back to a country that has given my family and me everything. I felt an obligation to give back to this country, not only for what it has done and continues to do for my family but also for my birth nation as well which protected our existence after world War II and continues to be our ally today. God Bless you America! There are none like you! This is just another chapter of my American dream, but unlike the other chapters, this is my favorite. I am looking forward to the next chapters! I would like to thank everyone that has been a part of this journey, advising and supporting me as I went through 14 weeks of intense mental and physical training! Semper Fi.

Drs. Basile, Chacko and myself all started projects in Dr LoRe’s class that have made their way to the American College of Emergency Medicine national presentations platforms and have even been published in national journals in emergency medicine.

We all developed the idea for my Press Ganey Project that I submitted to your course a few months ago, and we just won first place at the NY ACEP Research forum in lake George this past Tuesday. We have also submitted this paper for publication in the American Journal of Emergency Medicine and are awaiting the journal decision.

We would like to thank Dr. LoRe and Dr. Crooks for all of the support and guidance that you have provided during our MBA journey. This would not have been possible otherwise.
The Effects of Practice Setting on Individual Doctor Press Ganey Scores

BACKGROUND
- Patient satisfaction is an important metric in the American healthcare system.
- Press Ganey score is one of nation’s leading surveys satisfaction surveys.
- Accounts for 25% of value-based purchasing scores—directly impacting hospital’s Medicare payments.
- 5 doctor centered questions.
- Graded on a continuous scale ranging from 1 (very poor) to 5 (very good).

OBJECTIVES
- We studied the impact of different workplace environments on individual doctor Press Ganey scores.
- SIUH south site – tertiary care facility
  - 37,000 ED patient visits per year
- SIUH north site – community setting
  - 32,000 ED patient visits per year
- Both facilities are staffed by the same operating department. Including attendings, residents and physician assistants and use the same electronic medical records.

METHODS
- Retrospective, observational study of ED physicians conducted at SIUH between January 1, 2015 and December 31, 2016.
- Doctors who practiced at each site and who had at least 10 Press ganey score responses were included.
- A total of 18 doctors, and 3420 press ganey score were included in the analysis.

RESULTS
- [Graphs showing data analysis]

CONCLUSION
- Individual doctors had significantly different Press Ganey scores based on practice locations.
- The difference in scores can be attributed to operational differences at these locations rather than specific doctor patient interactions.
- Operational differences include:
  - Door to room time
  - Turn around time – time until attending is assigned to the case
  - Length of stay
  - Left without evaluation
  - ED holds of patients admissions.
- Unlike that physicians change their practice patterns, include manner, or treatment plans between sites.

Curriculum News: Undergraduate

Happy new year!

Although we refer to this as the spring semester, the weather hardly feels like spring as snow continued to fall late into March. Regardless, our undergraduates returned from spring break wearing shorts and flip flops. Remember those days?

At the Nicolas School of Business we continue to prepare for ACBSP ten year site visit which will take place next year. Dr. Shani Carter, Director of Accreditation, leads the preparation for accreditation. We are fortunate to have such a dedicated professional in Dr. Carter. She works tirelessly preparing data and guiding our faculty through this important process.
During the semester NSB discussed alternate methods of teaching. Several faculty are studying the possibility of offering hybrid courses. We have developed a template which will be considered for implementation. Once the study is completed and approved by the Wagner College Academic Policy Committee a faculty member shall beta test in one business course. More to come on this topic as we move forward.

Other program improvements in the discussion stage include making Wagner a test site for Microsoft Office Certification, establishing a Capital Markets/Bloomberg Room, exploring dual major opportunities with Economics Department and availing students to Certified Management in Accounting exam preparation.

Our faculty have conducted research in their area of expertise, presenting at conferences and publishing in peer reviewed journals. This semester three SELECTS accompanied Dr. Crooks, Dr. Tully and Prof. Wise to an academic conference. Our students were able to gain presentation experience. In addition, together with their faculty, a research manuscript has been submitted for consideration to be published in a peer reviewed journal for consideration. I am particularly proud of this student/faculty research agenda. NSB students never cease to amaze us!

NSB students continue to thrive in the classroom and beyond the campus. Through the goodness of our Alumni, many students have the opportunity to intern on Staten Island and in Manhattan. The faculty and students are grateful for your willingness to host our students.

If you wish to share your time and talent with our students, I urge you to reach out to me. We welcome our Alumni to visit us on campus.

Thank you for all that you do for the Nicolais School of Business.

Traditional MBA Program

The new streamlined MBA program is now in the second phase of having a robust MBA program consisting of 13 courses, or 39 credit hours. The previous MBA program was comprised of 15 graduate courses.

Presently, the class of 2019 will be the first to complete the two year MBA by earning 39 graduate credits as opposed to the 45 graduate credits in previous years.

The eight core Business Administration courses and five concentration courses in management, marketing, or finance were developed by consolidating Business Administration courses and synthesizing the specific concentration courses in the students concentration.
Similar to our undergraduate business program, we offer challenging internships both in New York city and on Staten Island. In the past year, we have had students complete financial consulting, marketing, and service related professional internships.

We thank our Alumni for actively supporting our MBA students and providing an established network in the New York area. Congratulations to our MBA class of 2018.

EMBA

This will mark the 25th and final year of our EMBA program as we combine the best aspects of both our EMBA/AccMBA into a Dual MBA in Finance and Management. The launch of this program, which was approved by the College and New York State, within the AccMBA curriculum will combine the best aspects of both programs in a weekend format and is totally unique in the Tri State area. We look forward to a start date in the near future as we beta test and iron out any bugs. STAY TUNED!!!

Rob Comerford Seminar

On Monday, March 19, 2018 Robert Comerford, CPA Senior Partner with Deliotte CPA Firm, Stamford Office, Ct, and long time contributor returned to Dr. Peg Horan's Accounting Class to give a Seminar on Professional Judgement with his colleague Rachael Grandovic. Robert was a student of Peg and graduated in 1994. The students participated in a "Case Study Involving Goodwill and Intangible Impairment". Students were energized by the seminar and thank Robert for never forgetting Wagner's roots. Thanks Chris Fourman for putting this together for us all.

Finance Club

Wagner College, Nicolais School of Business Finance Club is open to those students whose main interest and discipline is Finance, as well as, any student who is intrigued by the global markets.

Among its many activities, the Finance Club introduces guest speakers from various areas of Finance. These guests include Managing Directors of major financial services institutions, entrepreneurs and recent graduates who are now employed in the field. In particular, recent alumni offer interesting perspectives as they transitioned from Wagner’s bucolic setting to the steel canyons of Wall Street. More importantly, the informal talks allow participants to learn life experiences post College, while building their network. The reaction by both students and speakers has been positive and enthusiastic. Pizza and refreshments are an added bonus.

Another enjoyable club activity is the annual intramural investment challenge. Teams are formed, and through the use of sophisticated trading software, players develop advanced investment strategies. The competition is intense, as participants attempt to beat the market and their fellow classmates.

The Finance Club also participates in conferences with other schools such as the Quinnipiac G.A.M.E International Finance Forum. At Quinnipiac, students sit on panels and attend breakout workshops built around exchanging and enhancing financial knowledge. Another event is the St. Francis Excel and Financial Modeling Bootcamp. Participants are given the opportunity to enhance their algorithmic and statistical skills, while connecting and sharing thoughts with colleagues. The Finance Club’s objective is to build knowledge outside the traditional classroom setting and develop friendships and skills that will sustain the student long after graduation.

EARTH DAY

On Friday, April 20, 2018, Wagner faculty, students, and staff participated in Earth Day of Service in the Port Richmond Community under the auspices of the Wagner College - Port Richmond Partnership (PRP), a program administered since 2008 by the Wagner College Center for Leadership & Community Engagement, whose Director is Arlette Cepada working under the direction of Dean Kevin Bott.

The project was sponsored by two of the PRP pillars – Economic Development and Education – and consisted of planting flowers in tree pits on Port Richmond Avenue and planting flowers at the following three schools: Port Richmond High School; P.S. 21; and I.S. 51. The Economic Development pillar of PRP is led by Dr. Shani D. Carter, Professor of Business while the Education pillar is led by Rhoda Frumkin, Associate Professor, Education Department and Dr. Katia Gonzalez, Associate Professor, Education Department.

For the Economic Development pillar, the merchants requested methods to beautify the area to attract customers, so Dr. Shani D. Carter, Professor of Business, led students in planting flowers in six tree pits along Port Richmond Avenue between Vreeland Street and New Street. The tree pits had been given fences by the NYC Parks department, but had become a magnet for litter.

Assessment/Accreditation section

Remarks from Director of Accreditation and Assessment

Nicolais School of Business faculty are committed to ensuring high quality learning experiences for all students. To this end, we continually monitor student learning outcomes and adjust curriculum to ensure students are given the most cutting-edge knowledge available. Beginning last semester, we have begun reporting assessment data at a much more detailed level, so faculty can see longitudinal changes in student learning by specific learning goals. For example, data for the written communication rubric are now reported by the five learning goals (e.g., development, organization) rather than by the total score on the rubric. We also report four years of data on employer responses to specific questions about interns (e.g., ability to work without supervision). The faculty are looking forward to making use of the expanded report to improve their courses.

Our annual assessment reports and rubrics used to assess student knowledge may be viewed at the following URL’s.

Regards,

Dr. Shani D. Carter Professor of Management &
Director of Accreditation and Assessment
With access to a network of more than 25,000 alumni, Wagner College students have a tremendous opportunity built into their college experience at the outset. Similarly, Wagner alumni seeking to hire bright, civic-minded students with strong academic backgrounds need only to look within their own alma mater to find the right candidates. At Wagner, these connections have primarily developed organically, as outcomes of alumni on-campus involvement or through direct contact with departments and the Center for Academic & Career Engagement.

The Wagner Select mentoring program takes the opportunity for student-alumni connections one step further by building on the existing informal process with a competitive process. Within the Wagner Select program, our highest performing students, those in the top 5% to 10%, are rewarded with first-preference access to successful alumni in their chosen industry, and alumni mentors are able to focus their influence and to develop deeper, more profound relationships with students.

The Nicolais School of Business, led by chair Dr. Donald L. Crooks, began this program in the fall of 2016 in partnership with alumna Mary Caracappa-Hurtado ’82, a Wagner Trustee and Morgan Stanley Managing Director. The effort is staffed and supported by Ms. Tara Chiari, Director of the Center for Academic & Career Engagement, and Chris Fourman, Senior College Relations Officer in the Office of Institutional Advancement.

Wagner Select is unique in that each selected student is connected to a “mentor team,” a pair of alumni in their chosen industry who have varying levels of experience: one who is closer to the student’s age group with 3-7 years of experience and one who is a seasoned professional. This allows for a team approach to mentoring and multi-layered connections between alumni and students.

Benefits for Alumni Mentors

- As part of a “mentor team,” alumni mentors also connect with other alumni in their field.
- The competitive process for applying to be a Wagner Select student ensures that the alumni mentor is connected with elite students at Wagner.
- Alumni mentors are staffed and supported by the Office of Institutional Advancement and College Relations.
- Alumni mentors have the opportunity to directly impact a student’s career trajectory, helping them navigate early in their career and, thus, shaping their future.

Benefits for Wagner Select Students

- Wagner Select students graduate with deep connections in their chosen industry.
- Wagner Select students gain a lasting professional resource in their mentor teams and individuals who are invested in their career success.
- Wagner Select students are positioned to succeed early in their careers and can become alumni with distinction.
Expectations

Mentors

Participation

Wagner recognizes that alumni mentors may have varying levels of availability and willingness to participate. All alumni mentors are assigned a Wagner College Relations Officer, Chris Fourman, to ensure that their experience in the Wagner Select program continues to be mutually beneficial.

We ask all alumni mentors to commit to participate for one full academic year (August to May). At the end of the academic year, the alumni mentors’ assigned College Relations Officer will connect with them and discuss their mentoring experience. We promise that the mentoring opportunity is on a one-to-one basis, meaning alumni will be assigned one mentee at a time.

Communication

In the spirit of the organic nature of connections that have existed at Wagner, the Wagner Select program does not have a rigid communications requirement. Rather, we encourage each mentor team to create its own agreed-upon mode and frequency of contact between alumni mentor and student.

We suggest: monthly check-ins via phone, email, Facetime/Skype; and quarterly or semi-annual (at least once per semester) in-person lunches or coffee.

During the year, Wagner will invite all Wagner Select students and mentor teams to an event either on-campus or in Manhattan to reinforce connections.

Influence

We ask our alumni mentors to give their Wagner Select students first preference in available internships or positions at their respective companies, providing that Wagner Select students are ideal candidates for those positions. In some cases, guidance regarding students’ academic program will be part of the discussions, in particular about maintaining GPA and the courses mentees should strive to enroll in to ensure they have the background necessary to succeed in their chosen focus areas. We also ask our alumni mentors to assist and advise our students on the non-academic skill sets required to succeed professionally.

Wagner Select Students

Wagner Select students are required to sign a contract agreeing to maintain academic excellence throughout the duration of their college careers. They understand that the onus is on them to maintain a communication flow with their mentor teams, including semester updates on their academic performance and/or challenges they are facing.

Wagner Select students also understand that participating in the program is a privilege and a tremendous, potentially life-changing opportunity.
The Selection Process

Wagner Select students undergo two rounds of selection beginning with an application process implemented through the Center for Academic & Career Engagement. The group selected via application also have an interview with Ms. Tara Chiari to discuss their career plans. In the pilot program, the best students in the Nicolais School of Business were selected via applications by CACE and then further vetted through the Nicolais School of Business Wagner Select Committee. Committee members include Dr. Cathyann Tully, Director of Undergraduate Studies, Professor Edward Strafaci, Director of Experiential Learning, and Dr. Donald L. Crooks, Chair.
