Dear Colleagues:

Hello and greetings from the Nicolais School of Business. I am very pleased and proud to be able to make this report to you at the conclusion of my initial year in the Dean’s Office. This has been a year of transition at Wagner with a new President, Dr. Joel Martin joining us, we are all eager to help him with his new role and to move the College forward to new accomplishments. In the Nicolais School there were also a number of transitions with three faculty retiring or moving on, some significant curricular changes, the maturation of our Board of Advisors and of course our new president and the vision and energy he brings to campus.

This year has gone by in a breath and as I reflect back now I am pleased to report progress on these key issues:

- Streamlining and right sizing the MBA program

- Creating a 25-member Board of Advisors which has provided invaluable advice and support to the School

- Continuous engagement with the professional practice community via our Executive in Residence program; a ‘Saturday Series’ of lectures by practitioners on various topics; guest lectures in classes; engagement on internships; mentoring & shadowing and much more

- Success in fundraising

- Recruiting and hiring a new faculty member in marketing and continuing the process of hiring for our accounting program

- Preparation for our upcoming ACBSP accreditation review
-Substantially increasing fall 2019 enrollment in our MBA program

-Partnering with Enrollment Management on the ways & means to recruit more undergraduate students to the School

This is an abridged list to be sure but it does provide a flavor of the transition underway in the School. For the next year the focus will be on enhancing the educational experience and professional engagement for our students, quality faculty recruiting, plus increasing both enrollment and resource development.

The Nicolais School and indeed the College now sit on the cusp of major changes within the higher education market and it is a comfort and source of enormous pride that I have been able this year to attract and engage significant support for the work that we do. We plan to do great things this year for our students and to enhance Wagner’s reputation. Thank you all again for your support and when you come to campus you have a standing invitation to visit my office. Best wishes

Respectfully

Dr. Geoffrey T. Mills

Dean

Recent Developments

- Executive in Residence: Mr. Robert Mazur was on campus in February for a day long Executive program when he discussed his role as an undercover drug agent and as a budding producer of movies. He visited a number of classes and gave a general lecture on the creative process of turning his book “The Infiltrator” into a movie, starring Bryan Cranston, of the same name.

- Saturday Series: This spring saw the inaugural session of a series of presentations by Wagner alumni on their professional lives. Students are exposed to real world problems and situations and are afforded the opportunity to both ask questions and network with our alums in a casual setting.
Assessment/Accreditation section

ACBSP Accreditation

During the fall and spring semester, the faculty and staff of the NSB along with members of the Wagner College community banded together to produce the decennial ACBSP accreditation Self Study https://www.acbsp.org/. Our efforts culminated in a 154-page report, with dozens of tables and supporting documents. The ACBSP team will visit Wagner in late September to review the report and to meet with the campus community.

The report examines all aspects of the operations of the NSB, and is divided into six major sections (known as Standards), as follows: Standard 1: Leadership; Standard 2: Strategic Planning; Standard 3: Student and Stakeholder Focus; Standard 4: Measurement and Analysis of Student Learning and Performance; Standard 5: Faculty and Staff Focus; and Standard 6: Educational and Business Process Management. These six Standards contain a total of 42 subsections. In addition, an Introductory section contains six sections including information such as college mission and organizational charts. Besides members of the NSB, many members of the Wagner community who assisted in preparation of the Self-Study.

Assessment

Our student learning assessment process (which is required for ACBSP Standard 4: Measurement and Analysis of Student Learning and Performance) is becoming more comprehensive and refined with the goal of improving student learning and alumni outcomes. For many years, we have included measures of B.S. and MBA student knowledge of business areas (i.e., management, marketing, accounting, finance, strategy, etc.) via use of the CapSim CompXM exam and via use of a Comprehensive Accounting Instrument (which prepares students for the CPA exam) in the M.S. Accounting program. In addition, we have used NSB-created rubrics to measure written communication of every student in every course and of oral communication in most courses. In 2017, we began requiring an Excel assignment in every course and we began requiring using an Excel rubric for every student in every course. We also obtain evaluations from supervisors of students who participate in internships.

We are improving our methods of incorporating information on student learning into curricular changes, and we are beginning the process of refining learning goals for our various concentrations (i.e., management, marketing, finance, and accounting). We are also beginning the process of creating a rubric to rate undergraduate senior thesis, to mirror the process of using a rubric to rate M.S. Accounting student theses. In addition, we have begun discussing methods to incorporate additional data, such as retention and graduation rates and alumni outcomes, into our assessment program.

We also measure many aspects of student satisfaction with NSB courses, faculty, and operations. Each of our three programs (i.e., B.S., MBA, and M.S. in Accounting) administers a survey to graduating students that is designed to measure student satisfaction. We have been monitoring this data for several years, and have made many improvements in NSB courses and operations based on student feedback. Our assessment reports are available on our website, and we would be delighted to receive your feedback on our efforts.

Our annual assessment reports and rubrics used to assess student knowledge may be viewed at the following URL’s.

Curriculum News: Undergraduate

Greetings and happy 2019! Although we refer to this semester as spring, the winter droned on well into April. Students did not let this deter them from making the most of the spring semester. As always, the spring semester signals the end of another productive academic year.

This year the Nicolais School of Business enrollment includes approximately 192 undergraduate students with concentrations in Accounting, Finance Marketing or Management. Most students adopt a second major or minor, the most popular being Economics, Math and Psychology. The class of 2019 included 78 NSB Undergraduate students, several of whom presented research with the faculty mentors at academic conferences in the metropolitan area. The student-faculty collaboration led to peer reviewed publications in Business journals such as the Academy of Business Research. NSB students’ toolkit is overflowing with knowledge and skills; their practical liberal arts education serves them well as they go forward with confidence (tinged with a bit of sadness and fear) to embrace the next chapter of their lives. We are so proud of their many accomplishments and look forward to seeing them return to campus as Wagner Alum.

This semester we welcomed ten additional students to our SELECTS program. Each student is paired with a mentor who provides individual career counseling and networking opportunities. The SELECTs are the top 5% of our NSB students and continue to excel in the classroom and beyond. Once again we thank Ms. Mary Caracappa and Dr. Donald Crooks for spearheading this program, now in its fourth year. Our SELECTs traditionally graduate with jobs at competitive firms like Goldman Sachs and Morgan Stanley. Graduates of this program are beginning to pay it forward by offering NSB internship opportunities to present students. The NSB circle continues to grow!

NSB Faculty have been very busy preparing for ACBSP ten year site visit. Dr. Shani Carter, Director of Assessment leads the charge, guiding us through preparation of the many necessary documents required by the accreditors. At the same time, four faculty searches are underway – Director of Accounting, Assistant professor of Accounting and two Assistant Professors of Marketing.

At the end of this academic year Dr. Peg Horan, Prof Ian Wise and Prof Michael Mahoney shall leave Wagner College. We celebrate the many years of accounting education, career guidance and inspiration they have given to our Wagner community. Heartfelt thanks to Peg, Ian and Mike. You will be missed.

Once again, thank you to our supporters for giving of your time and talent. Have a restful summer!

With access to a network of more than 25,000 alumni, Wagner College students have a tremendous opportunity built into their college experience at the outset. Similarly, Wagner alumni seeking to hire bright, civic-minded students with strong academic backgrounds need only to look within their own alma mater to find the right candidates. At Wagner, these connections have primarily developed organically, as outcomes of alumni on-campus involvement or through direct contact with departments and the Center for Academic & Career Engagement.

The Wagner Select mentoring program takes the opportunity for student-alumni connections one step further by building on the existing informal process with a competitive process. Within the Wagner Select program, our highest performing students, those in the top 5% to 10%, are rewarded with first-preference access to successful alumni in their chosen industry, and alumni mentors are able to focus their influence and to develop deeper, more profound relationships with students.

The Nicolais School of Business, led by chair Dr. Donald L. Crooks, began this program in the fall of 2016 in partnership with alumna Mary Caracappa-Hurtado ’82, a Wagner Trustee and Morgan Stanley Managing Director. The effort is staffed and supported by Ms. Tara Chiari, Director of the Center for Academic & Career Engagement, and Chris Fourman, Senior College Relations Officer in the Office of Institutional Advancement.

Wagner Select is unique in that each selected student is connected to a “mentor team,” a pair of alumni in their chosen industry who have varying levels of experience: one who is closer to the student’s age group with 3-7 years of experience and one who is a seasoned professional. This allows for a team approach to mentoring and multi-layered connections between alumni and students.

Benefits for Alumni Mentors

- As part of a “mentor team,” alumni mentors also connect with other alumni in their field.
- The competitive process for applying to be a Wagner Select student ensures that the alumni mentor is connected with elite students at Wagner.
- Alumni mentors are staffed and supported by the Office of Institutional Advancement and College Relations.
- Alumni mentors have the opportunity to directly impact a student’s career trajectory, helping them navigate early in their career and, thus, shaping their future.

Benefits for Wagner Select Students

- Wagner Select students graduate with deep connections in their chosen industry.
- Wagner Select students gain a lasting professional resource in their mentor teams and individuals who are invested in their career success.
- Wagner Select students are positioned to succeed early in their careers and can become alumni with distinction.
Expectations

Mentors

Participation

Wagner recognizes that alumni mentors may have varying levels of availability and willingness to participate. All alumni mentors are assigned a Wagner College Relations Officer, Chris Fourman, to ensure that their experience in the Wagner Select program continues to be mutually beneficial. We ask all alumni mentors to commit to participate for one full academic year (August to May). At the end of the academic year, the alumni mentors’ assigned College Relations Officer will connect with them and discuss their mentoring experience. We promise that the mentoring opportunity is on a one-to-one basis, meaning alumni will be assigned one mentee at a time.

Communication

In the spirit of the organic nature of connections that have existed at Wagner, the Wagner Select program does not have a rigid communications requirement. Rather, we encourage each mentor team to create its own agreed-upon mode and frequency of contact between alumni mentor and student. We suggest: monthly check-ins via phone, email, Facetime/Skype; and quarterly or semi-annual (at least once per semester) in-person lunches or coffee. During the year, Wagner will invite all Wagner Select students and mentor teams to an event either on-campus or in Manhattan to reinforce connections.

Influence

We ask our alumni mentors to give their Wagner Select students first preference in available internships or positions at their respective companies, providing that Wagner Select students are ideal candidates for those positions. In some cases, guidance regarding students’ academic program will be part of the discussions, in particular about maintaining GPA and the courses mentees should strive to enroll in to ensure they have the background necessary to succeed in their chosen focus areas. We also ask our alumni mentors to assist and advise our students on the non-academic skill sets required to succeed professionally.

Wagner Select Students

Wagner Select students are required to sign a contract agreeing to maintain academic excellence throughout the duration of their college careers. They understand that the onus is on them to maintain a communication flow with their mentor teams, including semester updates on their academic performance and/or challenges they are facing. Wagner Select students also understand that participating in the program is a privilege and a tremendous, potentially life-changing opportunity.

The Selection Process

Wagner Select students undergo two rounds of selection beginning with an application process implemented through the Center for Academic & Career Engagement. The group selected via application also have an interview with Ms. Tara Chiari to discuss their career plans. In the pilot program, the best students in the Nicolais School of Business were selected via applications by CACE and then further vetted through the Nicolais School of Business Wagner Select Committee. Committee members include
Dr. Cathyann Tully, Director of Undergraduate Studies, Professor Edward Strafaci, Director of Experiential Learning, and Dr. Donald L. Crooks, Chair.
