This team-taught Intermediate Learning Community brings together the study of art and politics in the context of what has come to be known as Spain. Using a combination of readings, images, and travel to the region, this course offers a special opportunity to learn about the cultural production of Spain. Specifically, the course offers an analysis of two key historical periods: Andalusia (Muslim Spain, 711-1492) and the Spanish Civil War (1936-1939). Using a host of images, including film, the course focuses on the material culture of Andalusia (Muslim Spain) and the rise of various political ideologies (beliefs) during the Spanish Civil War.

Join us over spring break as we travel to Madrid, Cordoba, Sevilla, and Granada!
