CELEBRATING TEAM WORK IN FIGHT AGAINST BREAST CANCER

STATEN ISLAND ADVANCE/IRVING SILVERSTEIN

Survivor Victoria Johnson, center, is joined by Paul McGee, interim vice president for communications of the American Cancer Society, and Wagner College assistant professor of nursing Nancy Cherosky, all speakers at the American Cancer Society's kickoff breakfast for Making Strides In Breast Cancer at the Excelsior Grand, New Dorp. Ms. Johnson urged those in attendance to remember the importance of supporting each other and of fundraising to win the war against cancer.
